ESTABLISHED 1833. MONDAY EVENING, JANUARY 18, 1886. PRICE THREE CENTS

LAWS.

Both Houses at Work on Them.

The Senate Listens to a Report Regulating Inter-State Commerce from Collum.

A Number of New Bills are Introduced in the House---Miss Bayard.

WASHINGTON.

Active Work in Both Houses Today.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Mr. Sherman resumed the chair to-day.

Among the petitions presented and referred was one from the merchants of El Paso, Texas, urging congress to put a stop to smuggling on the Mexican border.

Among the reports submitted from the committees was one by Mr. Cullom, from the committee appointed to investigate the conduct of the regulation of freight and passenger rates on the railroads and water. With the report Mr. Cullom submitted a bill regulating inter-state commerce, which he asked might be referred back to the committee and that the committee be continued. The request was granted and resolutions passed ordering to be printed 5,000 copies of the committee's report and the testimony taken before it.

Mr. Ingalls offered a resolution asking the secretary of the treasury what part of the bonds called for payment Feb. 1 are held by the national banks as a basis for circulation.

HOUSE.

In the absence of the speaker, the house was called to order by the clerk and a note from Mr. Carlisle was read designating Mr. Springer, of Illinois, as speaker pro tem for the day.

These are among the bills introduced and referred: Repealing the statutes which impose taxes on notes, state banks, state building associations and municipal corporations; to extend the benfit of the pension laws to worthy applicants for pensions who served in the late war and their widows or minor children, who are unable, under existing laws, to furnish the evidence to connect their disabilities with service; to provide for on inspection of the live stock, hog product and and dressed meats; to provide for uniform ballot box; providing for extinguishing of patents; to create a board of commissioners of inter state commerce; to assign army officers as attaches to foreign legations; granting a pension to Mrs. Meikleham, the only surviving granddaughter of Thomas Jefferson; granting pensions to the survivors of the Mexican and Indian wars.

NOTES.

The remains of Miss Bayard will be taken to Wilmington, Delaware for interment. No ceremonies will be held in this city.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Stead, editor of the Pall Mall Gazette, was released from prison to-day. He will speak to-night.

Dynamite or Home Rule.

By Cable to the SENTINEL.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Members of the present and last ministries have received letters threatening retaliation with dynamite if the coercion policy in relation to Ireland is adopted, or if home rule for that country is refused.

City Clerk Rockhill gives these interesting footings from the city tax duplicate just out: Value of lots and lands taxed, $6,539,550; value of improvements taxed, $5,480,060; value of personal property taxed, $3,727,965; total value of taxables, $15,747,575; No. of polls, 4,837; No. of dogs, 720; No. of female dogs, 33. To Mr. Rockhill is due the credit of the early completion of the tax duplicates, which for months has engaged himself and an assistant. The finance committee in their report last week complimented Messrs. Rockhill and Berghoff on their efficiency. This is the first instance of the kind on record, but all will agree the praise was worthily bestowed on two excellent gentlemen.

Tic douloureux or neuralgia can be instantly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Salvation Oil. Price twenty-five cents a bottle.

BRAND NEW.

The parishioners of St. Mary's Catholic church held a meeting at the school hall yesterday afternoon. Some three hundred gentlemen were present. Rev. J. H. Oechtering presided and Mr. Henry C. Berghoff was secretary.

Mr. A. Dreuding, an architect from Chicago, was present. He stated that neither the walls, roof nor pillars of the shattered edifice could be used, but that the steeple was sound and might be utilized. The sentiment of the meeting was not for "patch work," and after stirring speeches were made by a number of gentlemen it was unanimously decided to erect an entirely new church—one larger, grander and more beautiful than the old structure. Mr. Dreuding and other architects will be asked to submit specifications for a house of worship to cost $60,000.

Rev. A. B. Oechtering, of Mishawaka, was present and addressed the assembly. He referred to the time when the St. Mary's congregation substantially assisted him to build a church and now it pleased him to have an opportunity to return the favor.

Letters were read from priests of the diocese and prominent people of Fort Wayne of every faith, offering assistance and sympathy. Among them are these:

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Jan. 14, 1886.

Rev. J. H. Oechtering:

DEAR SIR—We desire to express to you our sympathy and regrets on account of the terrible calamity that happened to you and your congregation by the sudden and total destruction of your beautiful church.

We know how hard you have worked since you came to this city to make your church a beautiful and a comfortable place of worship and therefore this unexpected blow must be all the more severe to you. Believing that the Creator has designed that we should all be united by a bond of sympathy we know that all good people in this city feel deeply and tenderly for you and your congregation in your trouble. Knowing that you will proceed at once to rebuild we would like to have you draw upon this bank for a subscription of $500 for that purpose, and our desire is that a feeling of liberality may fill the hearts of all who know that your mission is a good one and that soon a more beautiful and commodious St. Mary's church may stand upon the ground where for years your people have worshipped. With kindest feelings of respect we remain yours respectfully and truly.

C. MCCULLOCH,
JOHN MOHR, JR.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Jan. 10, 1886.

Rev. John Oechtering, Pastor of St. Mary's church:

DEAR SIR—Will you please allow the writer to give to you, for the rebuilding of the St. Mary's church, a tea set chased in gold and silver, now in my store, for you to dispose of as you may deem proper.

"Never a tear bedims the eye
That time and patience can not dry."
—BRET HARTE.

Respectfully yours,
H. N. WARD.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Jan. 13, 1886.

Rev. John Oechtering, Pastor St. Mary's Catholic Church:

KIND SIR—Allow me to express to you and your people the sincere sympathy of myself and congregation in your severe affliction—the destruction of your beautiful house of worship. I hope you will be able to go on and rebuild in the near future. May the great Head of the Church sustain you.

Yours sincerely,
S. A. NORTHROP,
Pastor First Baptist church.

To these and other letters the congregation and pastor returned most heartfelt thanks and time will but strengthen this kindly feeling. It is believed the insurance companies will pay $12,000 on policies held on the ruined building and this will give the thrifty congregation a start. The plans for the new church will include a new pastoral residence, but nothing was done as to the school building.

Finance and building committees were appointed and they will meet to-night.

"I have Athlophoros in stock and have ordered it two or three times. Parties to whom it has been sold speak very highly of it," Druggist E. P. Marsh, of Neenah, Wis., writes, recounting his experience in handling the remedy for rheumatism and neuralgia.

The Wabash employes held a meeting this afternoon at 4 o'clock to make final arrangements to attend the funeral of the late Mrs. J. B. Barnes. The shops will be closed Wednesday.

SABBATH SIN.

Louis Schroeder Beats His Wife and Smashes the Household Goods.

Just after noon yesterday, a Mrs. Siebold, hurried to the residence of Marshal Meyer and related that Louis Schroeder, who lives at 148 Wells street, had punished his wife and broken the furniture of their little home. Deputy Marshal Patton hurried to the house, but the domestic storm was over, and no person would make complaint. Schroeder is a teamster employed by Mike Baltes.

QUITE A THEFT.

Yesterday Mr. James Summers, the well known liquor dealer, drove to the Academy of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart, to visit his two daughters. After returning home he missed a role of greenbacks amounting to $125, or possibly more. The money was laid away in the family bed room and was taken by a sneak thief during the absence of Mr. Summers and while other members of the family were engaged in other parts of the house, which is prominent on Douglas avenue. There is no clue to the theft and not a point for the officers to work on.

The St. Paul Ice Palace.

[Special Correspondence.]

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 12.—We are about to have an ice palace here that will compare with anything of the kind ever attempted. It is being constructed by the architect of structures of the same character at Montreal carnivals. Some idea of the structure may be gained from the accompanying sketch of the completed building, but one must see this huge mass of glistening ice to appreciate it. The building covers a space of ground 150x160 feet. The main tower rises from the center of the pile, and is the striking feature of the design. The height of this tower will be 130 feet, and its four angles curved into circular turrets, three of which will be one foot in diameter and the fourth eleven feet. From the latter tower—twenty feet above the others—will float the Stars and Stripes. Attached to this tower are four others, which on one side will be seventeen feet by sixteen and sixty-four feet high, while on the other side are two towers twenty-three feet by nineteen and fifty feet high. Two of these are triple towers, connected by castellated curtain walls, and the other two, small ones, by a semi circular bastion. There are also several outlying towers, which form the corners of the structure. These are connected by a castellated wall, as will be seen from the accompanying cut, and at each angle of these walls are circular turrets thirty-six feet high and twelve each in diameter. The main entrance is a round tower, flanked by square turrets, and inside will be fashioned a commodious skating rink, to which an initiation fee will be charged, a curling rink being added for the amusement of devotees of that (to outsiders) spiritless game. INDIA rubber is menaced with a rival. The rubber dealers in eastern Nicaragua think they have discovered a tree whose gum will give as much satisfaction as rubber, and will, in fact, take its place. They say that the milk of the tuno furnishes a most excellent gutta percha, equal to the best found in the Eastern tropics, while the number of trees is virtually inexhaustible, and the gum can be produced with profit at twelve cents a pound.

SIX CHILDREN

Are Burned to Death in a House.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 18.—In Columbia county, Friday night, the house of Emanuel Johnson burned. Six children, asleep in one room, were burned to death.

THE village of Cavendash, Vermont, has just lost its oldest character in the death of Dave Ordway, an old miller, whose peculiarities were not altogether cheerful. Years ago he had a costly coffin made for himself. When it was ready he paid a clergyman $100 to preach his funeral sermon, and, laid out in this coffin, was borne amid doleful dirges down the aisle of the church to the foot of the pulpit, where he lay listening to his mock obsequies. This over the coffin was placed in his parlor, and remained there until the time for its real use came. One of his millstones forms the base of a quaint monument, bearing the following inscription—a little thing of his own: "Tho I am dead yet speaketh, for here in rest upon this millstone top I sot this noble block to let the world know what I have done."

THE memorial stone of Oregon for the Washington monument is on exhibition in Washington. The Oregon stone is the most beautiful that has yet been sent by any State. It was designed and cut by Frank Wood, of Albany Ore. The stone is brown granite sandstone, or hydrous silicate, and bears on its face a landscape, with Oregon's coat-of-arms, surrounded by fruits and flowers, the whole inclosed with a raised moulding set in sandstone. Surounding the State seal are thirty-two stars of greenish syenite, and the snow-capped mountains are represented by white marble from Southern Oregon.

Everybody invited to the Academy of Music this evening to hear from Mr. Mason Long, his experience as a hard drinker, gambler and follower of the trotters, up to and including his reformation and conversion. Seats free.

Republican newspapers talk much about county debts, forgetting that Marion county, a republican hot bed, has a bonded debt of $950,000. This is the sort of reform and freedom from burdensome taxation the republicans give us when they hold the reins.

In looking over the tax rates of the neighboring counties for 1885, as generally published in the county papers, last week, we note that the tax levy for county purposes only, known as the county tax, is in Lagrange county 35½ cents on each $100 valuation; Steuben, 99½; Noble, 25; Elkhart, 40½; St. Joseph, 27½; Marshall, 45; Laporte, 37: Whitley, 40½; Kosciusko, 40. The state levies are of course the same in all the counties: State, 12; school, 16; state house, 2; endowment, ½; total by the state, 30½ cents. The township levies are widely different in every county. The average total taxes, state, county and township, ranges in the township of Lagrange county, from 1.19 to 1.40; town of Lagrange, 2.07. Sometimes ATHLOPHOROS will not act as quickly as in this case, but it is sure and the more severe the pain the more quickly it will act. There is no disease more common and none more intensely painful than neuralgia. Ladies particularly are subject to headaches of neuralgic origin. Neuralgia in any form can be surely cured. Athlophoros is absolutely safe and absolutely sure. Thousands who have suffered intensely with neuralgia and been cured by the use of Athlophoros prove the truth of this statement. Benson's Capcine Plasters are widely imitated. That is the fact. Now, why are they imitated? Because they are the only porous plaster in existence that is really trustworthy and valuable. Benson's Plasters are highly and scientifically medicated, and cure in a few hours, ailments upon which no others had any effect whatever. The public are therefore cautioned against plasters bearing the names of "Capsicin," or "Capsicum," "Capsicine," or "Capucin," which are meant to pass for "Capcine" (please note the difference) and also against plasters bearing the names "Benton's" "Burton's," etc. When buying, ask distinctly for Benson's Plaster and protect yourself by a personal examination. The genuine has the word "Capcine" cut or aroused in the body of the plaster and the "Three Seals" trade-mark on the face cloth. 28daw-4w

OFFICIAL PAPER COUNTY AND CITY.

MONDAY, JAN. 18, 1886.

SAM JONES is preaching at Cincinnati, Moody at Chicago and Hughes and Ward at Fort Wayne. Their aim is to lift up, elevate and redeem mankind. Let no one look lightly on this work.

THERE is much destitution in Ireland, and in some sections hunger and want have driven the people to acts of lawlessness. To add to the gloomy picture, Lord Salisbury's party propose coercion as a remedy for the Irish demands for home rule.

PRIVATE JOHN BURKE, who has just been discharged from the Suffolk regiment, is supposed to have been the oldest soldier in the British army, having enlisted in 1847. He had six good conduct stripes, and was refused the seventh on the ground that six were the maximum number allowed. He had served in the Crimean and Indian mutiny campaigns, and also in China and Afghanistan.

THE baby Infanta Mercedes of Spain cannot understand the death of her father, whom she may succeed as sovereign. The child believes the King to be still staying at the Pardo, and lately pulled a rose to pieces, put the leaves in an envelope, and gave them to King Alfonso's favorite valet, saying: "Here, Prudencio, go to the Pardo and give this to papa. Tell him to come soon, for it is so sad here—nobody does anything but cry."

JOHN B. GOUGH reappeared on the lecture platform at Melrose, Mass., a few evenings ago, and introduced himself by explaining the cause of his long silence. "I appear to-night," he said, "for the first time in three months, and for the first time in my life with a set of crockery in my mouth. I have dreaded greatly appearing before the public, not under false pretenses, but under false teeth." Reports say that Mr. Gough spoke "with all of his old eloquence and vigor."

COL. ROBERT A. SCOTT, United States army and the Union army during the civil war, and ex-Gen. Marcus J. Wright, of the Confederate service, are in charge of the work of compiling the military records of the rebellion. They have been at work since 1878, and have issued thirteen volumes, making eighteen books in all. The greatest interest attaches to the Confederate archives, because of the constant effort to secure "missing links." Twenty copyists are employed. Gen. Wright possesses the largest album of Confederate notabilities now extant.

GREAT humorists do not always fare similarly. When Mark Twain put on the gloves and stood up before the German language it knocked him out in three rounds. On the other hand Bartley Campbell gave it a left-hander that sent it into the arms of its second, where, gently murmuring "Mittagessenfruestickfertigwashaben sie schlossenhiebenschlag," it acknowledged Bartley the conqueror. Now Mr. Campbell and the German language are old friends, and when the G. L. meets the tall dramatist it gets up on a chair and flings its arms cordially around his neck.

MR. G. H. D. GOSSIP, an appropriate name for a raconteur, is writing interesting reminiscences of old Parisian life in an Australian monthly. One of his papers relates to the frequenters, twenty years ago, of the Cafe de la Regence, which was the resort of all the famous chess players. Here is what this ready Gossip has to say of the President of the French Republic, who, as Jules Grevy, dressed in plain black alpaca coat, used to play chess: "His large intellectual forehead, firm mouth and clean-shaved face gave him a marked personality. Grevy was a quiet, reserved man, with a certain noli me tangere air, as if conscious of his own merits, and his habitual tacitiurnity contrasted strangely with the volubility of the great sculptor, Lequesne, and other loquacious Frenchmen who frequented this resort."

MR. HOWELLS, the novelist, tells a good story about his own writings. After he had published "The Lady of the Aroostook" he received a letter from an unknown friend, an old salt, who knew whereof he spoke; and in this letter Mr. Howells was informed that if he allowed the Aroostook to go out to sea in the rig he had given her she would be lost before she had fairly cleared the harbor. This frank nautical criticism was recognized by Mr. Howells, and in the next edition the vessel sailed forth under her proper rig.

IN Arkansas a young girl is always off with the old love before she is on with the new. Miss Jennie Orrall, of Morrillton, that state, was in love with a young man named Barnes, who was tried for murder. She attended the trial, and evinced the deepest affection for the accused. But when he was sentenced, she consoled herself by at once marrying J. B. Dickinson, the prosecutor. Time, one week; beating the record by fifteen minutes. The married couple wisely left for North Carolina. Should Mr. Barnes regain his liberty, there is no telling but a sudden divorce might be had and another impromptu wedding arranged.

AMONG the 13,314 couples who got married in Berlin last year were 561 widows, 229 divorced women, and one man who had the courage to marry a woman who had been divorced three times. There were 95 marriages of cousins, 4 of uncle and niece, 2 of nephew and aunt. One man of 25 married a woman of nearly 60, and one man of 75 a girl of 25. In 53 cases the man was 15 to 20 years younger than the bride, in 9 cases 20 to 25 years younger, in one case about 30 years younger. March, April, and May, September, October, and November were the months in which the greatest number of marriages took place.

THE son of the editor of Lloyd's Weekly of London, England, a newspaper which has a weekly circulation of 670,000 copies, has been visiting in New York. The newspaper-men there have been showing him around their mammoth offices, and the young man is reported as amazed, even astonished, on seeing the wonderful power-presses chew up such enormous quantities of white paper. Each of the leading newspaper offices in New York has the fastest presses and largest circulation in the world. It is no wonder the young man was carried off his feet at sight of the marvelous printing facilities displayed to his view. Of course the 650,000 edition of old man Lloyd's sheet is printed on a hand-press.

"I READ Webster and Worcester through once each year," said an elderly man in a Chicago library the other day. "I do it as a sort of rest from my work. When my brain and hands become tired I put my work aside and open the dictionary. I can't tell you how fascinating it becomes. I return to it with avidity, as most people would to a novel that has been laid aside half read. I read it leisurely, and it becomes as interesting as a history or a book of travels. I have read both dictionaries eleven times, and am by no means tired of them yet. Webster's has a melancholy interest for me. I was personally acquainted with James G. Percival, who did the greater part of the work upon it. Yes, poor Percival!"

In the Dear Old Days.

We differ in creed and politics, but we are a unit all the same on the desirableness of a fine head of hair. If you mourn the loss of this blessing and ornament, a bottle or two of Parker's Hair Balsam will make you look as you did in the dear old days. It is worth trying. It is the only standard 50c article for the hair.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferers at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. leod&wly.

LESS than four out of each hundred Americans lived in cities in 1790. The city population had increased in 1840 to eight per cent., and is now twenty-two. There are only seventeen States with more people than New York City.

COMPRESSES wet with a decoction of thirty parts of valerian root and one hundred parts of water are used by a French surgeon in dressing wounds. It hastens the healing, relieves the pain, and is especially valuable in deep-seated wounds.

FROM the African mining field has been sent, in the last fifteen years, something like $200,000,000 worth of diamonds in the rough, which, with the cost of cutting, setting, and selling, must have cost consumers something like $500,000,000.

THE recent assertions by masters of vessels that refined petroleum in tin cases exerts an influence on the compasses equal to the same amount of iron or steel, has attracted much attention, and it is expected that means of protection will in a short time be devised.

DR. ERNST TUCKS, author of a prize essay on blindness and its prevention, states that short-sightedness, which is increasing so alarmingly among reading people, is the cause of 70 per cent of all cases of blindness of one eye, and that the immoderate use of tobacco gives rise to partial blindness.

A CHEESE-DEALER states that much of the so-called English cheese is made in this country and shipped to England, whence it is returned, enhanced in value by the sea voyage. Sometimes cheeses are shipped backward and forward two or three times, each voyage adding to the richness of their flavor.

A WATCHMAKER in Newcastle is said to have completed a set of three gold shirt-studs, in one of which is a watch that keeps excellent time, the dial being about three-eighths of an inch in diameter. The three studs are connected by a strip of silver inside the shirt-bosom, and the watch contained in the middle one is wound up by turning the stud above, and the hands are set by turning the one below.

THE Revue Scientifique places France in the front rank of breeders of carrier pigeons for military purposes. Eight French cities now have extensive dovecotes, and $20,000 a year is inserted in the budget for their maintenance. The Austrian Government also encourages the rearing of homing pigeons, and pairs are given to soldiers of the reserves, who compete for prizes offered to the most successful breeders.

LAST spring ice in the Atlantic Ocean penetrated very far to the south and east in consequence of continuous northerly and northwesterly gales, and several icebergs occurred even in the Gulf Stream. From extensive observation it is asserted that the first recess on northward of Atlantic ice is toward the end of June, and that it remains longest between the Banks and the east coast of Newfoundland.

THE ancients highly esteemed the sunshine as conducive to health. It is related by Plutarch that when the youthful Alexander visited Diogenes at Corinth he found the famous philosopher lying tranquilly in the sun. The warrior kindly saluted him, and asked if he could do anything for him. "Only stand a little out of my sunshine," replied the sage. Diogenes was then threescore and ten, and age made the sunshine doubly dear to him. It was a common practice in Greece for old men to recruit their energies, both mental and physical, by exposing themselves naked in the sun.

EPITHELIOMA!

OR SKIN CANCER.

For seven years I suffered with a cancer on my face. All the simple remedies were applied to alleviate the pain, but the place continued to grow, finally extending into my nose, from which came a yellowish discharge very offensive in charac er. It was also inflamed, and annoyed me a great deal, About eight months ago I was in Atlanta, at the house of a friend, who so strongly recomended the use of Swift's Specific that I determined to make an effort to procure it. In this I was succe-sful, and began its use. The influence of the medicine at first was to somewhat aggravate the sore; but soon the inflammation was allayed, and I began to improve after the first few bottles. My general health has greatly improved. I am stronger, and able to do any kind of work. The cancer on my face began to decrease and the ulcer to heal, until there is not a vestige of it left—only a little scar marks the place where it had been. I am ready to answer all questions relative to this cure.

MRS. JOICIE A. McDONALD,
Atlanta, Ga., August 11, 1885.

I have had a cancer on my face for some years, extending from one cheek bone across the nose to the other,. It has given me great deal of pain, at times burn ng and itching to such an extent that it was almost unbearable. I commenced using Swift's Specific in May, 1885, and have used eight bottles. It has given the greatest relief by removing the inflammation and restoring my general health.

W. BARNES.
Knoxville, Iowa, Sept. 8, 1885.

For many years I was a sufferer with cancer of the nose, and having been cured by the use of S. S. S., I feel constrained by a sonse of duty to suffering humanity to make this statement of my case. With the 14th bottle the cancer began to heal rapidly and soon disappeared, and for several months there has been no appearance of a sore of any kind on my nose or face, neither is my nose at all tender to the touch. I have taken about two dozen bottles S. S. S., and am soundly cured, and I know that S. S. S. effected the cure after every known remedy was tried and had failed.

ROBERT SMEDLEY.
Fort Gaines, Ga., May 1, 1885.

I had heard of the wonderful cures of Swift's Specific, and resolved to try it. I commenced taking it in April, 1884. My general health was much improved, yet the cancer which was in my breast continued to grow slowly but surely. The bunch grew and became quite heavy. I felt that I must either have it cut or die. But it commenced discharging quantities of almost black, thick blood. It continued healing around the edges until February, when it was entirely healed up and well. BETTY WOOD.
Cochesett, Plymouth co., Mass., July 13, 1885

THE DRAMA.

HABITS OF ACTORS OFF THE STAGE.

Actors Off the Stage.

Nothing is so interesting as a rule to people as gossip about other people, and especially concerning men and women in public life, and more particularly concerning the people of the stage. Actors of necesity lead a double life, part upon the mimic stage, part in the solemn realities of privacy. Contrary to the general opinion, a large majority of actors, old and young, are married.

Nat Goodwin is married to Eliza Weathersby, with whom he has a home in Ocean Spray, but as he generally plays upon the road their domestic life has but little of home surroundings. He is very generous when he has money, and disposed to be off-hand and careless in bearing.

Stuart Robson's name is Robert Stuart. He has a wife and married daughter, and in the summer time leads a very happy, jolly life in Cohassett, Massachusetts, where he has a pleasant home in the center of an actors' colony, and welcomes many friends during the off months of the year.

William H. Crane, of the firm of Robson & Crane, is also married, but has no children. A very pleasant country home not far from that of Robson affords himself and his amiable wife genuine rest and enjoyment during three months of the year. Crane is a yachtman.

Unlike Robson and Crane, John T. Raymond hasn't the Yankee gift of saving money. His name was originally O'Brien, but he had it changed by act of Legislature to Raymond. His first wife was a very beautiful woman named Marie Gordon. They separated some years ago, when Raymond, who was then rather an old gentleman, married Miss Courtney Barnes, a daughter of Rose Eytinge and David Barnes, at one time an editor in Albany and later city editor of the New York Times. Raymond, who is nearer 60 than 50, has as many friends in this world as any mortal living, and he is as much himself when on the stage as when on the street.

Louis James, who was first known to New York Theater goers in Daly's Company, when Clara Morris, Sarah Jewett, Charles Fisher, and James Lewis were part and parcel of a company, headed by Fanny Davenport, lost his wife some years since, she leaving him two charming children. He subsequently married Miss Marie Wainwright, and now is the proud head of a family consisting of a wife and four children.

James Lewis the comedian's wife was Miss Amy Herbert. They have no children, and live on Broadway, opposite Wallack's Theater.

Joseph Wheelock, who still essays the youthful lover and speaks the lines of youngmandom upon the boards, has a grown up son and a happy home. He is rough and ready in private life, quick to resent an insult and equally ready to "make it up." Circumstances have cast him as a rule in the role of impassioned lovers, while the unmistakable mold of nature turned him out in every sense equipped for the manliest kind of a contest with the world.

Lawrence Barrett is married, but although he has a very elegant home in Massachusetts his family spends much of the time abroad, where one of his daughters is married. Barrett spends most of his time reading. He reads when he travels, he reads when he rests, he affects literary society.

Edwin Booth has been married twice. His daughter, Edwina, now married, was a child by his first wife, Mary Devlin, herself a promising actress. After various settlings in life Booth has established a home in Boston and spends the summers in Newport. He is reported to be as gracious and thoughtful at home as he is selfiish and exacting upon the stage.

Frank Mayo is a curious illustration of the disguises of the stage. His "Davy Crockett" is a character known from Maine to Georgia and from Cape Cod to Oakland, while Frank Mayo himself would not be recognized by one in a thousand were he to appear on any of the chief thoroughfares of the metropolis. He is married and has a grown up family, to whom he is courtesy itself, considerate, helpful and frank, as his name implies.

J. K. Emmett is one of the richest men of his profession, and a man about as notorious by his sprees as he is popular by way of his great, but much abused gifts. He is married and his family are grown up. He is building a magnificent home in the vicinity of Albany, which he recently gave his wife, to whom he seems peculiarly attached.

James O'Neil is married, and travels continually during the season, spending his vacation with wife and child in New London, Connecticut. The melo-dramatic Edmund Dantes, the diplomatic Count of Monte Cristo, find no reproduction in the quiet retiracy of James O'Neil in private life.

"Billy," as William J. Florence is universally known, is never himself upon the stage so far as make up is concerned. He is one of the oldest in years, but one of the youngest in feeling and bearing of the successful actors of the day. He is reputed to be particularly well off.

The man of all men who never sinks his identity on the stage is Tony Pastor —real name Antonio Pastor.—His sole disguise is an opera hat tipped in front or behind, or jammed down upon his ears, as the whim or caprice of the moment dictates. Like Billy Florence, Tony Pastor is a most devoted husband and lives very happily with his charming companion in his handsome home. Jules Levy, who has been in the country very nearly a third of a century, has been married several times, once in England and twice here. On the stage he is quiet, unimpressionable, with a single thought—of success upon his instrument. He is said to have family in England, and by Miss Marian Conway, now Mrs. Tearle, whom he married here some years ago, he had two children, one of whom died, the other being with his mother in Europe. Mr. Levy also has a little one by his present wife, with whom he leads a very happy though a particularly peripatetic existence.

W. J. Carleton, the baritone, has a wife and several children, who reside in the upper part of the city, on Lexington avenue, while he is traveling with his company.

Carleton is a dashing, love-making sort of a chap upon the stage, and generally dresses after the fashion of other days, in garments of exceptional elegance. With long, curly locks, blonde or raven, as the character may demand, he can be as forlorn and despondent in his love making on the stage as necessary, but on the street he is a clean-cut man of business, with no nonsense about him, full of the conceits of his class, but very manly, very emphatic, and tenacious of his standing in commercial circles.

James H. Stoddard appears, as a rule, in the character of a fatherly old party, with ministerial guise and long white hair. He has a farm and home in Rahway, to which he repairs every night after the performance, when in the city, that he may give to his wife—not over strong and oftentimes a serious invalid —the affection and tender solicitude she craves, and which long years of experience lead her to look for.

George S. Knight spends most of his time now in traveling. He at one time had a very pretty home in Brooklyn, and when his wife, formerly Miss Sophia Worrell, began to travel with him they gave up the house and now utilize hotels. On the stage Knight is a dashing, reckless, roistering fellow; on the street he is mildness personified, modest, nover presuming, always decorous, and reputable in every possible way.

Joseph Jefferson's grown-up family are among the wellk-nowns of the profession of which he is a conspicuous star. Jefferson himself, while traveling a great deal, rests every now and then, as, for instance, now until April next, and spends his vacation in his homes in the South or New Jersey. He is a man of extremely quiet tastes.

Oliver Doud Byron has a beautiful place at Long Branch, where with his wife, Kate, he keeps open house during the summer months, and may be seen driving daily from point to point invariably attended by a crowd of guests.

Leonard Grover ("old Fel") is well known in every city in the country. It would be an absurdity to say that he is any different on the street from what he is upon the stage.

McKee Rankin married many years ago the favorite juvenile of the Boston Museum. Together they have a home in Canada, where with their children they spend the restful months of the year. There is not a particle of the stage villain about Rankin on the street. In his home he is an affectionate husband and a solicitous father.

Edwin F. Thorne's dismal convict in the "Black Flag" is not much like the jolly roysterer, whose home in Long Branch is the resort of friends, professional and otherwise, or the "hurrah boy" habitue of the Union Square Hotel and Union Square in general.

John W. Albaugh, known to the American stage since 1855, is one of Long Branch's earliest discoverers. He married Mary Mitchell, who played Topsy in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" as long ago as 1855, with whom he lives at the Branch in hospitable style.

Joseph E. Whiting, who comes of an acting family, plays the heroic or sentimental, as the cast may be, but privately he is solid, sturdy, characteristically imperturbable, and occupies, with the wife of his bosom, a pleasant flat on Seventh Avenue.—New York Herald.

Catarrh Cured

Catarrh is a very prevalent disease, with distressing and offensive symptoms. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives ready relief and speedy cure, from the fact it acts through the blood, and thus reaches every part of the system.

"I suffered with catarrh fifteen years. Took Hood's Sarsaparilla and I am not troubled any with catarrh, and my general health is much better." I. W. LILLIS, Postal Clerk Chicago & St. Louis Railroad.

"I suffered with catarrh 6 or 8 years; tried many wonderful cures, inhalers, etc., spending nearly one hundred dollars without benefit. I tried Hood's Sarsaparilla, and was greatly improved." M. A. ABBEY, Worcester, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is characterized by three peculiarities: 1st, the combination of remedial agents; 2d, the proportion; 3d, the process of securing the active medicinal qualities. The result is a medicine of unusual strength, effecting cures hitherto unknown. Send for book containing additional evidence.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla tones up my system, purifies my blood, sharpens my appetite, and seems to make me over." J. P. THOMPSON, Register of Deeds, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." I. BARRINGTON, 130 Bank Street, New York City.

LIKE A DEMON.

The insanity of A. B. Tousley, of South Wayne, and his visit to his dead child's grave, was narrated Saturday. The patient was admitted to the state asylum by telegraph and last night Sheriff Nelson and Deputies Clausmeier and Mungeon started with him to Indianapolis. Mr. Tousley was furious while in jail and destroyed everything in the room. The iron bed was twisted out of form, the mattress pulled into shreds and a stout iron hook that held the cot to the rail was wrenched from its place. The work evidenced superhuman strength and five men had all they could do to tie the maniac down. He bit them, kicked them, struck them and cursed them with all the fury the burning brain of the unfortunate man could command. He did not act badly going to the depot but Mr. Nelson feared trouble on the train.

A GLORIOUS MEETING.

The Academy Crowded and Packed Yesterday Evening.

Messrs. Ward and Hughes, the temperance evangelists, had the largest crowd last night of any since their opening. Hundreds marched up to the front of the room and signed the pledge. There seemed more interest displayed than ever before. It is thought now that the work has fully commenced and Fort Wayne will witness one of the greatest temperance revivals ever known. To-morrow an all day meeting will be held and it is requested that those who cannot attend to remember in their prayers at home, those going to distruction by strong drink. The following persons will conduct the all-day meeting to-morrow: Rev. McFarland and Rev. Paynter, from 10 to 11 a. m.; Revs. Northrop, Waltz and Slade, 11 to 12; Drs. A rousing meeting will be held to-night. All are invited.

MAKE ROOM

Adjutant General Koontz, of this state, says that many soldiers in the Soldiers' home, at Dayton, O., have a good deal of money or property, some of them having saved ten or fifteen thousand dollars by investing their money judiciously. Many poor soldiers are kept out of the home because there is no room for them, while these men, comparatively well-to-do, are allowed to remain at the government's expense. The adjutant general thinks congress should remove such soldiers from the home as are comfortably provided for, to make room for others that are needy. Here is a splendid chance for the Grand Army of the Republic to take steps that will be lastingly beneficial to many poor, broken-down veterans who are debarred from the comforts of the home because of its crowded condition.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

Redmond & Barry were seen at the Temple for the first time Saturday night in "A Midnight Marriage." The stars are trained and careful in the title roles, but their support is weak, for instance, the "King" is employed to take tickets at the door and later startle the audience with anything but a kingly appearance. The play is historical and while the costumes were magnificent, this age can but have little interest in the court affairs of old.

The attraction at the Temple to-morrow night is McIntyre & Heath's minstrels, an organization which includes a number of old favorites and which make an excellent impression. The first part presents the usual minstrel features—ancestral jokes, pretty melodies and lively small talk. In the second part the Braham brothers appear in their "Shadowgraphs;" McIntyre and Heath and the Barlow brothers charm the audience by their "Coming Home From Meeting;" Dewitt and Kirwin give evidence of great musical proficiency; the Clipper Quartet present a pleasing burlesque entitled "Sour Mash;" Delhauer and Geyer as Frog and Clown caused much sport, and the comedy "Way Down South," with which the performance concludes, brings out the full strength of the company.

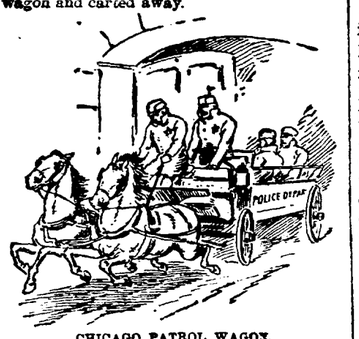
CHICAGO'S POLICE SYSTEM.

Its Unique Features that May Be Adopted by Other Cities.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—The new western cities that are just creating their local governments and institutions adopt new things more readily than the old ones do. With the long-established towns systems have already crystalized. It is not surprising, therefore, to find in Chicago features connected with public administration that are lacking even in New York.

One of them is the police patrol wagon. It was devised by a clever Cincinnati boy, whom his friends call "Ed" Armstrong, and has been adopted in that city as well.

Now suppose there should be a rattling street fight, such as will happen at times in the best regulated cities. An alarm is sent out, and up rumbles the patrol wagon, in less than no time, full of armed policemen. If a 200-pound woman gets on the rampage, pummels the officers and sits square down upon the sidewalk and says all the police force in Christendom can't make her go to the station house, behold! a little tap of an electric gong, and almost before the crowd can collect and guy the policeman, the cantankerous creature is lifted into the wagon and carted away.



CHICAGO PATROL WAGON.

In New York recently a drunken lady declined to accompany the minions of the law, and intimated that a whole United States army couldn't budge her.

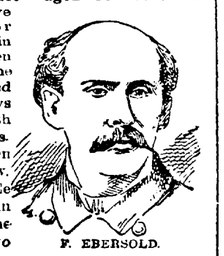
"Then we'll take you on a handcart," said the head minion. He actually ordered up an Italian peanut vender, and the metropolis would have witnessed the spectacle of a woman riding to the police station in a peanut cart, only at that prospect her feminine spirit relented and she arose and walked. Had New York possessed a patrol wagon the Italian method need not have been resorted to.

Another noteworthy feature of the police system here is the alarm telephone boxes. These are scattered abundantly throughout Chicago. Small eight-sided sentry boxes are built. Within these are both telegraph and telephone arrangements. Policemen, and citizens who can be trusted have access to the lodges. How they are used you see from the illustration. A policeman finds a man lying insensible upon the pavement. He does not need to wait till he can go to the nearest police station for aid. He unlocks the sentry box and telephones for the patrol wagon. It comes and conveys the man away without delay. Jibbers, jealous of the greatness of Chicago, say that when a policeman enters a sentry box he generally comes out wiping his mouth across his sleeve. It is a mysterious motion, not at all understood by the uninitiated. The same jibbers declare that this appears to be the principal use of the boxes. But how could that be?

TELEPHONE BOX.

The wagons drive like mad, and are provided with a gong, which is struck constantly to warn people to get out of the way for the patrol is coming. Under the seats are boxes in which are stored a medicine chest, blankets, ropes, a stretcher, and weapons and handcuffs, ample provision for both accident and crime.

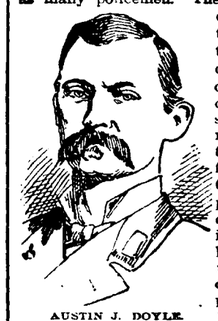
The wagon service has been organized about three years, and in that time has rendered valuable aid. It was away off in the late mob at the box factory here, however. The strikers who were out attacked the workmen who had taken their places as they entered the building in the morning. Three men had their heads broken and one's face was pounded to a jelly. There was a considerable "sloshin' about" promiscuously besides and it all took time. The alarm was sent for the police wagon in hot haste. There must have been thirty or more persons in the fight. But when the wagon came nobody was found but two small boys and the men with the broken heads. The boys had taken no part in the row. The official vehicle was, however, in time to carry the wounded men to the hospital.



F. EBERSOLD.

The efficiency of the Chicago police organization is largely due to the present superintendent, Frederick Ebersold, whose portrait is here given. The largest part of the trade and banking wealth of Chicago is included in one police district, that guarded by men from the Harrison street station.

It is hard to say exactly why, but the lawless elements seem harder to keep down in the western cities than in the eastern. For one thing, the former are insufficiently guarded. Chicago, though half as large as New York, has only about one-third as many policemen. These have no more desperate a spirit to cope with among the evil doing classes than those of the east, but certainly that spirit here is more restless and untamed. Besides, for some reason Chicago is unhappily a sort of storm center of socialism. There have been many mutterings and some outbreaks of a tempest in this direction. There are millions of wealth here made in grain and stock speculations, and when men are hungry they are apt to look with little favor on the owners of riches so got.



AUSTIN J. DOYLE.

In truth, the subtle breath of riot and outbreak is in the air of more than one American city, and our high-pressure times may explode it almost any time. Particularly is this supposed to be true of Chicago, with all its wealth and architectural beauty. The police stations here are in a small way arsenals, where arms and ammunition are kept. The arms are rifles. But the policemen's pocket pistols are kept in the sentry boxes, it is said. The men are drilled like soldiers, so that if the day of trouble comes they can present a solid front, shoulder to shoulder, against a mob. On the other hand, though, if from an upper window of a house some one should hurl a little lump of dynamite into the midst of even the best-drilled squad of policemen it would make short work of them. Let us all hope capital everywhere will stop in time and not push labor quite to the wall in America.

For the introduction of admirable changes in the police system Chicago is indebted greatly to ex-Police Superintendent Austin J. Doyle.

EXCITEMENT UNABATED.

Proof that that Physician's Terrible Confession is True.

Cleveland, O., Herald.

Yesterday and the day before we copied into our columns from the Rochester, N. Y., Democrat and Chronicle, a remarkable statement, made by J. B. Henion, M. D., a gentlemen who is well known in this city. In that article Dr. Henion recounted a wonderful experience which befell him, and the next day we published from the same paper a second article, giving an account of the excitement in Rochester, and elsewhere caused by Dr. Henion's statement. It is doubtful if any two articles were ever published which caused greater commotion both among professionals and laymen.

Since the publication of these two articles, having been besieged with letters of inquiry, we sent a communication to Dr. Henion and also to H. H. Warner & Co., asking if any additional proof could be given, and here it is:

GENTLEMEN: I owe my life and present health wholly to the power of Warner's Safe Cure, which snatched me from the very brink of the grave. It is not surprising that people should question the statement I made (which is true in every respect) for my recovery was as great a marvel to myself as to my physicians and friends. * * *

J. B. HENION, M. D.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 21.

SIRS—The best proof we can give you that the statements made by Dr. Henion are entirely true, and would not have been published unless strictly so, is the following testimonial from the best citizens of Rochester and a card published by Rev. Dr. Foote.

H. H. WARNER & Co.

To Whom it May Concern:

We are personally or by reputation acquainted with Dr. Henion and we believe he would publish no statement not literally true. We are also personally or by reputation well acquainted with H. H. Warner & Co., proprietors of Warner's Safe Cure (by which Dr. Henion says he was cured), whose commercial and personal standing in this community are of the highest order, and we believe that they would not publish any statements which were not literally and strictly true in every particular.

C. R. PARSONS, (Mayor of Rochester.)
WM. PURCELL, (Editor Union and Advertiser.
W. D. SHUART, (ex-Surrogate Monroe county.)
EDWARD A. FROST, (ex-Clerk Monroe county.)
E. B. FENNER, (ex-District Attorney Monroe county.
J. M. DAVY, (ex-Member Congress, Rochester.)
JOHN S. MORGAN, (County Judge, Monroe Co.)
HIRAM SIBLEY, (Capitalist and Seedsman.)
JOHN VAN VOORHIS, (ex-Member of Congress.)

There was published in the Rochester (N. Y.) Democrat and Chronicle of the 31st of December, a statement made by J. B. Henion, M. D., narrating how he had been cured of Bright's disease of the kidneys, almost in its last stages, by the use of Warner's Safe Cure. I was referred to in that statement, as having recommended and urged Dr. Henion to try the remedy, which he did, and was cured. The statement of Dr. Henion is true, so far as it concerns myself, and I believe it to be true in all other respects. He was a parishioner of mine and I visited him in his sickness. I urged him to take the medicine and would do the same to any one who was troubled with a disease of the kidneys and liver.

ISRAEL FOOTE, (D. D.,)

WASHINGTON.

Active Work in Both Houses Today.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Mr. Sherman resumed the chair to-day.

Among the petitions presented and referred was one from the merchants of El Paso, Texas, urging congress to put a stop to smuggling on the Mexican border.

Among the reports submitted from the committees was one by Mr. Cullom, from the committee appointed to investigate the conduct of the regulation of freight and passenger rates on the railroads and water. With the report Mr. Cullom submitted a bill regulating inter-state commerce, which he asked might be referred back to the committee and that the committee be continued. The request was granted and resolutions passed ordering to be printed 5,000 copies of the committee's report and the testimony taken before it.

Mr. Ingalls offered a resolution asking the secretary of the treasury what part of the bonds called for payment Feb. 1 are held by the national banks as a basis for circulation.

In the absence of the speaker, the house was called to order by the clerk and a note from Mr. Carlisle was read designating Mr. Springer, of Illinois, as speaker pro tem for the day.

These are among the bills introduced and referred: Repealing the statutes which impose taxes on notes, state banks, state building associations and municipal corporations; to extend the benfit of the pension laws to worthy applicants for pensions who served in the late war and their widows or minor children, who are unable, under existing laws, to furnish the evidence to connect their disabilities with service; to provide for on inspection of the live stock, hog product and and dressed meats; to provide for uniform ballot box; providing for extinguishing of patents; to create a board of commissioners of inter state commerce; to assign army officers as attaches to foreign legations; granting a pension to Mrs. Meiklehem, the only surviving granddaughter of Thomas Jefferson; granting pensions to the survivors of the Mexican and Indian wars.

City Clerk Rockhill gives these interesting footings from the city tax duplicate just out: Value of lots and lands taxed, $6,539,550; value of improvements taxed, $5,480,060; value of personal property taxed, $3,727,065; total value of taxables, $15,747,575; No. of polls, 4,837; No. of dogs, 720; No. of female dogs, 33. To Mr. Rockhill is due the credit of the early completion of the tax duplicates, which for months has engaged himself and an assistant. The finance committee in their report last week complimented Messrs. Rockhill and Berghoff on their efficiency. This is the first instance of the kind on record, but all will agree the praise was worthily bestowed on two excellent gentlemen.

BRAND NEW.

The parishioners of St. Mary's Catholic church held a meeting at the school hall yesterday afternoon. Some three hundred gentlemen were present. Rev. J. H. Oechtering presided and Mr. Henry C. Berghoff was secretary.

Mr. A. Dreuding, an architect from Chicago, was present. He stated that neither the walls, roof nor pillars of the shattered edifice could be used, but that the steeple was sound and might be utilized. The sentiment of the meeting was not for "patch work," and after stirring speeches were made by a number of gentlemen it was unanimously decided to erect an entirely new church—one larger, grander and more beautiful than the old structure. Mr. Dreuding and other architects will be asked to submit specifications for a house of worship to cost $60,000.

Rev. A. B. Oechtering, of Mishawaka, was present and addressed the assembly. He referred to the time when the St. Mary's congregation substantially assisted him to build a church and now it pleased him to have an opportunity to return the favor.

Letters were read from priests of the diocese and prominent people of Fort Wayne of every faith, offering assistance and sympathy. Among them are these:

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Jan. 14, 1886.

Rev. J. H. Oechtering:

DEAR SIR—We desire to express to you our sympathy and regrets on account of the terrible calamity that happened to you and your congregation by the sudden and total destruction of your beautiful church.

We know how hard you have worked since you came to this city to make your church a beautiful and a comfortable place of worship and therefore this unexpected blow must be all the more severe to you. Believing that the Creator has designed that we should all be united by a bond of sympathy we know that all good people in this city feel deeply and tenderly for you and your congregation in your trouble. Knowing that you will proceed at once to rebuild we would like to have you draw upon this bank for a subscription of $500 for that purpose, and our desire is that a feeling of liberality may fill the hearts of all who know that your mission is a good one and that soon a more beautiful and commodious St. Mary's church may stand upon the ground where for years your people have worshipped. With kindest feelings of respect we remain yours respectfully and truly.

C. MCCULLOCH,
JOHN MOHR, JR.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Jan. 10, 1886.

Rev. John Oechtering, Pastor of St. Mary's church:

DEAR SIR—Will you please allow the writer to give to you, for the rebuilding of the St. Mary's church, a tea set chased in gold and silver, now in my store, for you to dispose of as you may deem proper.

"Never a tear bedims the eye
That time and patience can not dry,"
—BRET HARTE.

Respectfully yours,
H. N. WARD.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Jan. 13, 1886.

Rev. John Oechtering, Pastor St. Mary's Catholic Church:

KIND SIR—Allow me to express to you and your people the sincere sympathy of myself and congregation in your severe affliction—the destruction of your beautiful house of worship. I hope you will be able to go on and rebuild in the near future. May the great Head of the Church sustain you.

Yours sincerely,
S. A. NORTHROP,
Pastor First Baptist church.

To these and other letters the congregation and pastor returned most heartfelt thanks and time will but strengthen this kindly feeling. It is believed the insurance companies will pay $12,000 on policies held on the ruined building and this will give the thrifty congregation a start. The plans for the new church will include a new pastoral residence, but nothing was done as to the school building.

Finance and building committees were appointed and they will meet to-night.

"I have Athlophoros in stock and have ordered it two or three times. Parties to whom it has been sold speak very highly of it," Druggist E. P. Marsh, of Neenah, Wis., writes, recounting his experience in handling the remedy for rheumatism and neuralgia.

The Wabash employes held a meeting this afternoon at 4 o'clock to make final arrangements to attend the funeral of the late Mrs. J. B. Barnes. The shops will be closed Wednesday.

Yesterday Mr. James Summers, the well known liquor dealer, drove to the Academy of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart, to visit his two daughters. After returning home he missed a roll of greenbacks amounting to $125, or possibly more. The money was laid away in the family bed room and was taken by a sneak thief during the absence of Mr. Summers and while other members of the family were engaged in other parts of the house, which is prominent on Douglas avenue. There is no clue to the theft and not a point for the officers to work on.

The St. Paul Ice Palace.

[Special Correspondence.]

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 12.—We are about to have an ice palace here that will compare with anything of the kind ever attempted. It is being constructed by the architect of structures of the same character at Montreal carnivals. Some idea of the structure may be gained from the accompanying sketch of the completed building, but one must see this huge mass of glistening ice to appreciate it. The building covers a space of ground 150x160 feet. The main tower rises from the center of the pile, and is the striking feature of the design. The height of this tower will be 130 feet, and its four angles curved into circular turrets, three of which will be one foot in diameter and the fourth eleven feet. From the latter tower—twenty feet above the others—will float the Stars and Stripes. Attached to this tower are four others, which on one side will be seventeen feet by sixteen and sixty-four feet high, while on the other side are two towers twenty-three feet by nineteen and fifty feet high. Two of these are triple towers, connected by castellated curtain walls, and the other two, small ones, by a semi circular bastion. There are also several outlying towers, which form the corners of the structure. These are connected by a castellated wall, as will be seen from the accompanying cut, and at each angle of these walls are circular turrets thirty-six feet high and twelve each in diameter. The main entrance is a round tower, flanked by square turrets, and inside will be fashioned a commodious skating rink, to which an initiation fee will be charged, a curling rink being added for the amusement of devotees of that (to outsiders) spiritless game.

THE village of Cavendash, Vermont, has just lost its oldest character in the death of Dave Ordway, an old miller, whose peculiarities were not altogether cheerful. Years ago he had a costly coffin made for himself. When it was ready he paid a clergyman $100 to preach his funeral sermon, and, laid out in this coffin, was borne amid doleful dirges down the aisle of the church to the foot of the pulpit, where he lay listening to his mock obsequies. This over the coffin was placed in his parlor, and remained there until the time for its real use came. One of his millstones forms the base of a quaint monument, bearing the following inscription—a little thing of his own: "Tho I am dead yet speaketh, for here in rust upon this millstone top I set this noble block to let the world know what I have done."

THE memorial stone of Oregon for the Washington monument is on exhibition in Washington. The Oregon stone is the most beautiful that has yet been sent by any State. It was designed and cut by Frank Wood, of Albany Ore. The stone is brown granite sandstone, or hydrous silicate, and bears on its face a landscape, with Oregon's coat-of-arms, surrounded by fruits and flowers, the whole inclosed with a raised moulding set in sandstone. Surrounding the State seal are thirty-two stars of greenish syenite, and the snow-capped mountains are represented by white marble from Southern Oregon.

THE MARKETS.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—The stock market opened irregular, first prices showing advances and declines about equal. The dealings throughout the first hour were feverish and excited and on large transactions a majority of the active list declined over 1 per cent. Union Pacific was conspicuous with a decline of 2¼ per cent., Pacific Mail and Lake Shore 1½ each. Towards 11 o'clock there were a few slight rallies, but they proved to be only momentary and the market closed active and weak throughout.

Mr. H. Fowler, 820 Main street, Terre Haute, Indiana, suffered from Neuralgia, and found no relief till he used ATHLOPHOROS, then in one day's time the pain was all gone.

Some sense ATHLOPHOROS will act act as quickly as in this case, but it is sure and the more severe the pain the more quickly it will act. There is no disease more common and none more intensely painful than neuralgia. Ladies particularly are subject to headaches of neuralgic origin. Neuralgia in any form can be surely cured. Athlophoros is absolutely safe and absolutely sure. Thousands who have suffered intensely with neuralgia and been cured by the use of Athlophoros prove the truth of this statement. Is it not worth a trial in your case?

Ask your druggist for Athlophoros. If you cannot get it of him we will send it express paid on receipt of regular price—$1.00 per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed.

Benson's Capcine Plasters are widely imitated. That is the fact. Now, why are they imitated? Because they are the only porous plaster in existence that is really trustworthy and valuable. Benson's Plasters are highly and scientifically medicated, and cure in a few hours, ailments upon which no others had any effect whatever. The public are therefore cautioned against plasters bearing the names of "Capsicin," or "Capsicum," "Capsicine," or "Capucin," which are meant to pass for "Capcine" (please note the difference) and also against plasters bearing the names "Hanton's" "Burton's," etc. When buying, ask distinctly for Benson's Plaster and protect yourself by a personal examination. The genuine has the word "Capcine" cut over or grouped in the body of the plaster and the "Three Seals" trademark on the face cloth. 26daw-4w

OFFICIAL PAPER COUNTY AND CITY.

MONDAY, JAN. 18, 1886.

SAM JONES is preaching at Cincinnati, Moody at Chicago and Hughes and Ward at Fort Wayne. Their aim is to lift up, elevate and redeem mankind. Let no one look lightly on this work.

THERE is much destitution in Ireland, and in some sections hunger and want have driven the people to acts of lawlessness. To add to the gloomy picture, Lord Salisbury's party proposes coercion as a remedy for the Irish demands for home rule.

PRIVATE JOHN BURKE, who has just been discharged from the Suffolk regiment, is supposed to have been the oldest soldier in the British army, having enlisted in 1847. He had six good conduct stripes, and was refused the seventh on the ground that six were the maximum number allowed. He had served in the Crimean and Indian mutiny campaigns, and also in China and Afghanistan.

THE baby Infanta Mercedes of Spain cannot understand the death of her father, whom she may succeed as sovereign. The child believes the King to be still staying at the Pardo, and lately pulled a rose to pieces, put the leaves in an envelope, and gave them to King Alfonso's favorite valet, saying: "Here, Prudencio, go to the Pardo and give this to papa. Tell him to come soon, for it is so sad here—nobody does anything but cry."

JOHN B. GOUGH reappeared on the lecture platform at Melrose, Mass., a few evenings ago, and introduced himself by explaining the cause of his long silence. "I appear to-night," he said, "for the first time in three months, and for the first time in my life with a set of crockery in my mouth. I have dreaded greatly appearing before the public, not under false pretenses, but under false teeth." Reports say that Mr. Gough spoke "with all of his old eloquence and vigor."

COL. ROBERT A. SCOTT, United States army and the Union army during the civil war, and ex-Gen. Marcus J. Wright, of the Confederate service, are in charge of the work of compiling the military records of the rebellion. They have been at work since 1878, and have issued thirteen volumes, making eighteen books in all. The greatest interest attaches to the Confederate archives, because of the constant effort to secure "missing links." Twenty copyists are employed. Gen. Wright possesses the largest album of Confederate notabilities now extant.

GREAT humorists do not always fare similarly. When Mark Twain put on the gloves and stood up before the German language it knocked him out in three rounds. On the other hand Bartley Campbell gave it a left-hander that sent it into the arms of its second, where, gently murmuring "Mittagessenfrnestickfertigwashaben sie schlossenhiebenschlag," it acknowledged Bartley the conqueror. Now Mr. Campbell and the German language are old friends, and when the G. L. meets the tall dramatist it gets up on a chair and flings its arms cordially around his neck.

MR. C. H. D. GOSSIP, an appropriate name for a raconteur, is writing interesting reminiscences of old Parisian life in an Australian monthly. One of his papers relates to the frequenters, twenty years ago, of the Cafe de la Regence, which was the resort of all the famous chess players. Here is what this ready Gossip has to say of the President of the French Republic, who, as Jules Grevy, dressed in plain black alpaca coat, used to play chess: "His large intellectual forehead, firm mouth and clean-shaved face gave him a marked personality. Grevy was a quiet, reserved man, with a certain noli me tangere air, as if conscious of his own merits, and his habitual taciturnity contrasted strangely with the volubility of the great sculptor, Lequesne, and other loquacious Frenchmen who frequented this resort."

MR. HOWELLS, the novelist, tells a good story about his own writings. After he had published "The Lady of the Aroostook" he received a letter from an unknown friend, an old salt, who knew whereof he spoke; and in this letter Mr. Howells was informed that if he allowed the Aroostook to go out to sea in the rig he had given her she would be lost before she had fairly cleared the harbor. This frank nautical criticism was recognized by Mr. Howells, and in the next edition the vessel sailed forth under her proper rig.

IN Arkansas a young girl is always off with the old love before she is on with the new. Miss Jennie Orrall, of Morrillton, that state, was in love with a young man named Barnes, who was tried for murder. She attended the trial, and evinced the deepest affection for the accused. But when he was sentenced, she consoled herself by at once marrying J. B. Dickinson, the prosecutor. Time, one week; beating the record by fifteen minutes. The married couple wisely left for North Carolina. Should Mr. Barnes regain his liberty, there is no telling but a sudden divorce might be had and another impromptu wedding arranged.

AMONG the 13,314 couples who got married in Berlin last year were 561 widows, 229 divorced women, and one man who had the courage to marry a woman who had been divorced three times. There were 95 marriages of cousins, 4 of uncle and niece, 2 of nephew and aunt. One man of 25 married a woman of nearly 60, and one man of 75 a girl of 25. In 53 cases the man was 15 to 20 years younger than the bride, in 9 cases 20 to 25 years younger, in one case about 30 years younger. March, April, and May, September, October, and November were the months in which the greatest number of marriages took place.

THE son of the editor of Lloyd's Weekly of London, England, a newspaper which has a weekly circulation of 650,000 copies, has been visiting in New York. The newspaper-men there have been showing him around their mammoth offices, and the young man is reported as amazed, even astonished, on seeing the wonderful power-presses chew up such enormous quantities of white paper. Each of the leading newspaper offices in New York has the fastest presses and largest circulation in the world. It is no wonder the young man was carried off his feet at sight of the marvelous printing facilities displayed to his view. Of course the 650,000 edition of old man Lloyd's sheet is printed on a hand-press.

"I READ Webster and Worcester through once each year," said an elderly man in a Chicago library the other day. "I do it as a sort of rest from my work. When my brain and hands become tired I put my work aside and open the dictionary. I can't tell you how fascinating it becomes. I return to it with avidity, as most people would to a novel that has been laid aside half read. I read it leisurely, and it becomes as interesting as a history or a book of travels. I have read both dictionaries eleven times, and am by no means tired of them yet. Webster's has a melancholy interest for me. I was personally acquainted with James G. Percival, who did the greater part of the work upon it. Yes, poor Percival!"

CATARRH

Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, is neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acting though the blood reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. In the Dear Old Days.

We differ in creed and politics, but we are a unit all the same on the desirableness of a fine head of hair. If you mourn the loss of this blessing and ornament, a bottle or two of Parker's Hair Balsam will make you look as you did in the dear old days. It is worth trying. It is the only standard 50c article for the hair.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—MRS. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferers at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. lecd&wly.

CURIOUS FACTS.

IN a household in Buncombe County, North Carolina, a large dish of peanuts has been placed on the dinner-table for dessert every day in the year since the lady of the house took a fancy to the fruit, thirty years back.

LESS than four out of each hundred Americans lived in cities in 1790. The city population had increased in 1840 to eight per cent., and is now twenty-two. There are only seventeen States with more people than New York City.

CONGRESSES wet with a decoction of thirty parts of valerian root and one hundred parts of water are used by a French surgeon in dressing wounds. It hastens the healing, relieves the pain, and is especially valuable in deep-seated wounds.

FROM the African mining field has been sent, in the last fifteen years, something like $200,000,000 worth of diamonds in the rough, which, with the cost of cutting, setting, and selling, must have cost consumers something like $500,000,000.

THE recent assertions by masters of vessels that refined petroleum in tin cases exerts an influence on the compasses equal to the same amount of iron or steel, has attracted much attention, and it is expected that means of protection will in a short time be devised.

DR. ERNST TUCKS, author of a prize essay on blindness and its prevention, states that short-sightedness, which is increasing so alarmingly among reading people, is the cause of 10 per cent. of all cases of blindness of one eye, and that the immoderate use of tobacco gives rise to partial blindness.

A CHEESE-DEALER states that much of the so-called English cheese is made in this country and shipped to England, whence it is returned, enhanced in value by the sea voyage. Sometimes cheeses are shipped backward and forward two or three times, each voyage adding to the richness of their flavor.

A WATCHMAKER in Newcastle is said to have completed a set of three gold shirt-studs, in one of which is a watch that keeps excellent time, the dial being about three-eighths of an inch in diameter. The three studs are connected by a strip of silver inside the shirt-bosom, and the watch contained in the middle one is wound up by turning the stud above, and the hands are set by turning the one below.

THE Revue Scientifique places France in the front rank of breeders of carrier pigeons for military purposes. Eight French cities now have extensive dovecotes, and $20,000 a year is inserted in the budget for their maintenance. The Austrian Government also encourages the rearing of homing pigeons, and pairs are given to soldiers of the reserves, who compete for prizes offered to the most successful breeders.

LAST spring ice in the Atlantic Ocean penetrated very far to the south and east in consequence of continuous northerly and northwesterly gales, and several icebergs occurred even in the Gulf Stream. From extensive observation it is asserted that the first recess on northward of Atlantic ice is toward the end of June, and that it remains longest between the Banks and the coast of Newfoundland.

THE ancients highly esteemed the sunshine as conducive to health. It is related by Plutarch that when the youthful Alexander visited Diogenes at Corinth he found the famous philosopher lying tranquilly in the sun. The warrior kindly saluted him, and asked if he could do anything for him. "Only stand a little out of my sunshine," replied the sage. Diogenes was then threescore and ten, and age made the sunshine doubly dear to him. It was a common practice in Greece for old men to recruit their energies, both mental and physical, by exposing themselves naked in the sun.

In the Hop Plasters the virtues of fresh hops are combined with strengthening and stimulating balsams, and its cures of weak back, pain in the side, rheumatism, neuralgia or pain in the chest are simply marvelous, if being more efficacious and thorough than any liniment or liquid remedies. EPITHELIOMA!

OR SKIN CANCER.

For seven years I suffered with a cancer on my face. All the simple remedies were applied to alleviate the pain, but the place continued to grow, finally extending into my nose, from which came a yellowish discharge very offensive in character. It was also inflamed, and annoyed me a great deal. About eight months ago I was in Atlanta, at the house of a friend, who so strongly recommended the use of Swift's Specific that I determined to make an effort to procure it. In this I was successful, and began its use. The influence of the medicine at first was to somewhat aggravate the sore; but soon the inflammation was allayed, and I began to improve after the first few bottles. My general health has greatly improved. I am stronger, and able to do any kind of work. The cancer on my face began to decrease and the ulcer to heal, until there is not a vestige of it left—only a little scar marks the place where it had been. I am ready to answer all questions relative to this cure.

MRS. JOICIE A. MCDONALD,
Atlanta, Ga., August 11, 1885.

I have had a cancer on my face for some years, extending from one cheek bone across the nose to the other. It has given me great deal of pain, at times burning and itching to such an extent that it was slm at unbearable. I commenced using Swift's Specific in May, 1885, and have used eight bottles. It has given the greatest relief by removing the inflammation and restoring my general health.

W. BARNES.
Knoxville, Iowa, Sept. 8, 1885.

For many years I was a sufferer with cancer of the nose, and having been cured by the use of S. S. S., I feel constrained by a sense of duty to suffering humanity to make this statement of my case. With the 14th bottle the cancer began to heal rapidly and soon disappeared, and for several months there has been no appearance of a sore of any kind on my nose or face, neither is my nose at all tender to the touch. I have taken about two dozen bottles S. S. S., and am soundly cured, and I know that S. S. S. effected the cure after every known remedy was tried and had failed.

ROBERT SMEDLEY.
Fort Gaines, Ga., May 1, 1885.

I had heard of the wonderful cures of Swift's Specific, and resolved to try it. I commenced taking it in April, 1884. My general health was much improved, yet the cancer which was in my breast continued to grow slowly but surely. The bunch grew and became quite heavy. I felt that I must either have it cut or die. But it commenced discharging quantities of almost black, thick blood. It continued healing around the edges until February, when it was entirely healed up and well.

BETTY WOOD.
Cochesett, Plymouth co., Mass., July 13, 1885.

HABITS OF ACTORS OFF THE STAGE.

Actors Off the Stage.

Nothing is so interesting as a rule to people as gossip about other people, and especially concerning men and women in public life, and more particularly concerning the people of the stage. Actors of necessity lead a double life, part upon the mimic stage, part in the solemn realities of privacy. Contrary to the general opinion, a large majority of actors, old and young, are married.

Nat Goodwin is married to Eliza Weathersby, with whom he has a home in Ocean Spray, but as he generally plays upon the road their domestic life has but little of home surroundings. He is very generous when he has money, and disposed to be off-hand and careless in bearing.

Stuart Robson's name is Robert Stuart. He has a wife and married daughter, and in the summer time leads a very happy, jolly life in Cohassett, Massachusetts, where he has a pleasant home in the center of an actors' colony, and welcomes many friends during the off months of the year.

William H. Crane, of the firm of Robson & Crane, is also married, but has no children. A very pleasant country home not far from that of Robson affords himself and his amiable wife genuine rest and enjoyment during three months of the year. Crane is a yachtman.

Unlike Robson and Crane, John T. Raymond hasn't the Yankee gift of saving money. His name was originally O'Brien, but he had it changed by act of Legislature to Raymond. His first wife was a very beautiful woman named Marie Gordon. They separated some years ago, when Raymond, who was then rather an old gentleman, married Miss Courtney Barnes, a daughter of Rose Eytinge and David Barnes, at one time an editor in Albany and later city editor of the New York Times. Raymond, who is nearer 60 than 50, has as many friends in this world as any mortal living, and he is as much himself when on the stage as when on the street.

Louis James, who was first known to New York Theater goers in Daly's Company, when Clara Morris, Sarah Jewett, Charles Fisher, and James Lewis were part and parcel of a company, headed by Fanny Davenport, lost his wife some years since, she leaving him two charming children. He subsequently married Miss Marie Wainwright, and now is the proud head of a family consisting of a wife and four children.

James Lewis the comedian's wife was Miss Amy Herbert. They have no children, and live on Broadway, opposite Wallack's Theater.

Joseph Wheelock, who still essays the youthful lover and speaks the lines of youngmandom upon the boards, has a grown up son and a happy home. He is rough and ready in private life, quick to resent an insult and equally ready to "make it up." Circumstances have cast him as a rule in the role of impassioned lovers, while the unmistakable mold of nature turned him out in every sense equipped for the manliest kind of a contest with the world.

Lawrence Barrett is married, but although he has a very elegant home in Massachusetts his family spends much of the time abroad, where one of his daughters is married. Barrett spends most of his time reading. He reads when he travels, he reads when he rests, he affects literary society.

Edwin Booth has been married twice. His daughter, Edwina, now married, was a child by his first wife, Mary Devlin, herself a promising actress. After various settlings in life Booth has established a home in Boston and spends the summers in Newport. He is reported to be as gracious and thoughtful at home as he is selfish and exacting upon the stage.

Frank Mayo is a curious illustration of the disguises of the stage. His "Davy Crockett" is a character known from Maine to Georgia and from Cape Cod to Oakland, while Frank Mayo himself would not be recognized by one in a thousand were he to appear on any of the chief thoroughfares of the metropolis. He is married and has a grown up family, to whom he is courtesy itself, considerate, helpful and frank, as his name implies.

J. K. Emmett is one of the richest men of his profession, and a man about as notorious by his sprees as he is popular by way of his great, but much abused gifts. He is married and his family are grown up. He is building a magnificent home in the vicinity of Albany, which he recently gave his wife, to whom he seems peculiarly attached.

James O'Neil is married, and travels continually during the season, spending his vacation with wife and child in New London, Connecticut. The melo-dramatic Edmund Dantes, the diplomatic Count of Monte Cristo, find no reproduction in the quiet retiracy of James O'Neil in private life.

"Billy," as William J. Florence is universally known, is never himself upon the stage so far as make up is concerned. He is one of the oldest in years, but one of the youngest in feeling and bearing of the successful actors of the day. He is reputed to be particularly well off.

The man of all men who never sinks his identity on the stage is Tony Pastor —real name Antonio Pastor.—His sole disguise is an opera hat tipped in front or behind, or jammed down upon his ears, as the whim or caprice of the moment dictates. Like Billy Florence, Tony Pastor is a most devoted husband and lives very happily with his charming companion in his handsome home. Jules Levy, who has been in the country very nearly a third of a century, has been married several times, once in England and twice here. On the stage he is quiet, unimpressionable, with a single thought—of success upon his instrument. He is said to have family in England, and by Miss Marian Conway, now Mrs. Tearle, whom he married here some years ago, he had two children, one of whom died, the other being with his mother in Europe. Mr. Levy also has a little one by his present wife, with whom he leads a very happy though a particularly peripatetic existence.

W. J. Carleton, the baritone, has a wife and several children, who reside in the upper part of the city, on Lexington avenue, while he is traveling with his company.

Carleton is a dashing, love-making sort of a chap upon the stage, and generally dresses after the fashion of other days, in garments of exceptional elegance. With long, curly locks, blonde or raven, as the character may demand, he can be as forlorn and despondent in his love making on the stage as necessary, but on the street he is a clean-cut man of business, with no nonsense about him, full of the conceits of his class, but very manly, very emphatic, and tenacious of his standing in commercial circles.

James H. Stoddard appears, as a rule, in the character of a fatherly old party, with ministerial guise and long white hair. He has a farm and home in Rahway, to which he repairs every night after the performance, when in the city, that he may give to his wife—not over strong and oftentimes a serious invalid —the affection and tender solicitude she craves, and which long years of experience lead her to look for.

George S. Knight spends most of his time now in traveling. He at one time had a very pretty home in Brooklyn, and when his wife, formerly Miss Sophia Worrell, began to travel with him they gave up the house and now utilize hotels. On the stage Knight is a dashing, reckless, roistering fellow; on the street he is mildness personified, modest, never presuming, always decorous, and reputable in every possible way.

Joseph Jefferson's grown-up family are among the wellk-nowns of the profession of which he is a conspicuous star. Jefferson himself, while traveling a great deal, rests every now and then, as, for instance, now until April next, and spends his vacation in his homes in the South or New Jersey. He is a man of extremely quiet tastes.

Oliver Doud Byron has a beautiful place at Long Branch, where with his wife, Kate, he keeps open house during the summer months, and may be seen driving daily from point to point invariably attended by a crowd of guests.

Leonard Grover ("old Fol") is well known in every city in the country. It would be an absurdity to say that he is any different on the street from what he is upon the stage.

McKee Rankin married many years ago the favorite juvenile of the Boston Museum. Together they have a home in Canada, where with their children they spend the restful months of the year. There is not a particle of the stage villain about Rankin on the street. In his home he is an affectionate husband and a solicitous father.

Edwin F. Thorne's dismal convict in the "Black Flag" is not much like the jolly roysterer, whose home in Long Branch is the resort of friends, professional and otherwise, or the "hurrah boy" habitue of the Union Square Hotel and Union Square in general.

John W. Albaugh, known to the American stage since 1855, is one of Long Branch's earliest discoverers. He married Mary Mitchell, who played Topsy in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" as long ago as 1855, with whom he lives at the Branch in hospitable style.

Joseph E. Whiting, who comes of an acting family, plays the heroic or sentimental,as the case may be, but privately he is solid, sturdy, characteristically imperturbable, and accepts, with the wife of his bosom, a pleasant flat on Seventh Avenue.—New York Herald.

FRANK MAYO seems to have finally made a success of "Nordeck."

Catarrh Cured

Catarrh is a very prevalent disease, with distressing and offensive symptoms. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives ready relief and speedy cure, from the fact it acts through the blood, and thus reaches every part of the system.

"I suffered with catarrh fifteen years. Took Hood's Sarsaparilla and I am not troubled any with catarrh, and my general health is much better." I. W. LILLIS, Postal Clerk Chicago & St. Louis Railroad.

"I suffered with catarrh 6 or 8 years; tried many wonderful cures, inhalers, etc., spending nearly one hundred dollars without benefit. I tried Hood's Sarsaparilla, and was greatly improved." M. A. ABNEY, Worcester, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is characterized by three peculiarities: 1st, the combination of remedial agents; 2d, the proportion; 3d, the process of securing the active medicinal qualities. The result is a medicine of unusual strength, effecting cures hitherto unknown. Send for book containing additional evidence.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla tones up my system, purifies my blood, sharpens my appetite, and seems to make me over." J. P. THOMPSON, Register of Deeds, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla beats all others, and is worth its weight in gold." I. BARRINGTON, 130 Bank Street, New York City.

LIKE A DEMON.

The insanity of A. B. Tousley, of South Wayne, and his visit to his dead child's grave, was narrated Saturday. The patient was admitted to the state asylum by telegraph and last night Sheriff Nelson and Deputies Clausmeier and Mungeon started with him to Indianapolis. Mr. Tousley was furious while in jail and destroyed everything in the room. The iron bed was twisted out of form, the mattress pulled into shreds and a stout iron hook that held the cot to the rail was wrenched from its place. The work evidenced superhuman strength and five men had all they could do to tie the maniac down. He bit them, kicked them, struck them and cursed them with all the fury the burning brain of the unfortunate man could command. He did not act badly going to the depot but Mr. Nelson feared trouble on the train.

MAKE ROOM

Adjutant General Koontz, of this state, says that many soldiers in the Soldiers' home, at Dayton, O., have a good deal of money or property, some of them having saved ten or fifteen thousand dollars by investing their money judiciously. Many poor soldiers are kept out of the home because there is no room for them, while these men, comparatively well-to-do, are allowed to remain at the government's expense. The adjutant general thinks congress should remove such soldiers from the home as are comfortably provided for, to make room for others that are needy. Here is a splendid chance for the Grand Army of the Republic to take steps that will be lastingly beneficial to many poor, broken-down veterans who are debarred from the comforts of the home because of its crowded condition.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

Redmond & Barry were seen at the Temple for the first time Saturday night in "A Midnight Marriage." The stars are trained and careful in the title roles, but their support is weak, for instance, the "King" is employed to take tickets at the door and later startle the audience with anything but a kingly appearance. The play is historical and while the costumes were magnificent, this age can but have little interest in the court affairs of old.

The attraction at the Temple to-morrow night is McIntyre & Heath's minstrels, an organization which includes a number of old favorites and which make an excellent impression. The first part presents the usual minstrel features—ancestral jokes, pretty melodies and lively small talk. In the second part the Braham brothers appear in their "Shadowgraphs;" McIntyre and Heath and the Hallow brothers charm the audience by their "Coming Home From Meeting;" Dewitt and Kirwin give evidence of great musical proficiency; the Clipper Quartet present a pleasing burlesque entitled "Sour Mash;" Delhauer and Geyer as Frog and Clown caused much sport, and the comedy "Way Down South," with which the performance concludes, brings out the full strength of the company.

CHICAGO'S POLICE SYSTEM.

Its Unique Features that May Be Adopted by Other Cities.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—The new western cities that are just creating their local governments and institutions adopt new things more readily than the old ones do. With the long-established towns systems have already crystalized. It is not surprising, therefore, to find in Chicago features connected with public administration that are lacking even in New York.

One of them is the police patrol wagon. It was devised by a clever Cincinnati boy, whom his friends call "Ed" Armstrong, and has been adopted in that city as well.

Now suppose there should be a rattling street fight, such as will happen at times in the best regulated cities. An alarm is sent out, and up rumbles the patrol wagon, in less than no time, full of armed policemen. If a 200-pound woman gets on the rampage, pummels the officers and sits square down upon the sidewalk and says all the police force in Christendom can't make her go to the station house, behold! a little tap of an electric gong, and almost before the crowd can collect and guy the policeman, the cantankerous creature is lifted into the wagon and carted away.

CHICAGO PATROL WAGON.

In New York recently a drunken lady declined to accompany the minions of the law, and intimated that a whole United States army couldn't budge her.

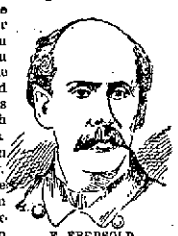
"Then we'll take you on a handcart," said the head minion. He actually ordered up an Italian peanut vender, and the metropolis would have witnessed the spectacle of a woman riding to the police station in a peanut cart, only at that prospect her feminine spirit relented, and she arose and walked. Had New York possessed a patrol wagon the Italian method need not have been resorted to.

Another noteworthy feature of the police system here is the alarm telephone boxes. These are scattered abundantly throughout Chicago. Small eight-sided sentry boxes are built. Within these are both telegraph and telephone arrangements. Policemen, and citizens who can be trusted have access to the lodges. How they are used you see from the illustration. A policeman finds a man lying insensible upon the pavement. He does not need to wait till he can go to the nearest police station for aid. He unlocks the sentry box and telephones for the patrol wagon. It comes and conveys the man away without delay. Jibbers, jealous of the greatness of Chicago, say that when a policeman enters a sentry box he generally comes out wiping his mouth across his sleeve. It is a mysterious motion, not at all understood by the uninitiated. The same jibbers declare that this appears to be the principal use of the boxes. But how could that be?

TELEPHONE BOX.

The wagons drive like mad, and are provided with a gong, which is struck constantly to warn people to get out of the way for the patrol is coming. Under the seats are boxes in which are stored a medicine chest, blankets, ropes, a stretcher, and weapons and handcuffs, ample provision for both accident and crime.

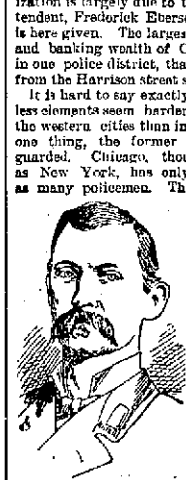
The wagon service has been organized about three years, and in that time has rendered valuable aid. It was away off in the late mob at the box factory here, however. The strikers who were out attacked the workmen who had taken their places as they entered the building in the morning. Three men had their heads broken and one's face was pounded to a jelly. There was a considerable "sloshin' about" promiscuously to sides and it all took time. The alarm was sent for the police wagon in hot haste. There must have been thirty or more persons in the fight. But when the wagon came nobody was found but two small boys and the men with the broken heads. The boys had taken no part in the row. The official vehicle was, however, in time to carry the wounded men to the hospital.



F. EBERSOLD.

The efficiency of the Chicago police organization is largely due to the present superintendent, Frederick Ebersold, whose portrait is here given. The largest part of the trade and banking wealth of Chicago is included in one police district, that guarded by men from the Harrison street station.

It is hard to say exactly why, but the lawless elements seem harder to keep down in the western cities than in the eastern. For one thing, the former are insufficiently guarded. Chicago, though half as large as New York, has only about one-third as many policemen. These have no more desperate a spirit to cope with among the evil doing classes than those of the east, but certainly that spirit here is more restless and untamed. Besides, for some reason Chicago is unhappily a sort of storm center of socialism. There have been many mutterings and some outbreaks of a tempest in this direction. There are millions of wealth here made in grain and stock speculations, and when men are hungry they are apt to look with little favor on the owners of riches so got.



AUSTIN J. DOYLE.

In truth, the subtle breath of riot and outbreak is in the air of more than one American city, and our high-pressure times may explode it almost any time. Particularly is this supposed to be true of Chicago, with all its wealth and architectural beauty. The police stations here are in a small way arsenals, where arms and ammunition are kept. The arms are rifles. But the policemen's pocket pistols are kept in the sentry boxes, it is said. The men are drilled like soldiers, so that if the day of trouble comes they can present a solid front, shoulder to shoulder, against a mob. On the other hand, though, if from an upper window of a house some one should hurl a little lump of dynamite into the midst of even the best-drilled squad of policemen it would make short work of them. Let us all hope capital everywhere will stop in time and not push labor quite to the wall in America.

For the introduction of admirable changes in the police system Chicago is indebted greatly to ex-Police Superintendent Austin J. Doyle.

EXCITEMENT UNABATED.

Proof that that Physician's Terrible Confession is True.

Cleveland, O., Herald.

Yesterday and the day before we copied into our columns from the Rochester, N. Y., Democrat and Chronicle, a remarkable statement, made by J. B. Henion, M. D., a gentlemen who is well known in this city. In that article Dr. Henion recounted a wonderful experience which befell him, and the next day we published from the same paper a second article, giving an account of the excitement in Rochester, and elsewhere caused by Dr. Henion's statement. It is doubtful if any two articles were ever published which caused greater commotion both among professionals and laymen.

Since the publication of these two articles, having been besieged with letters of inquiry, we sent a communication to Dr. Henion and also to H. H. Warner & Co., asking if any additional proof could be given, and here it is:

GENTLEMEN: I owe my life and present health wholly to the power of Warner's Safe Cure, which snatched me from the very brink of the grave. It is not surprising that people should question the statement I made (which is true in every respect) for my recovery was as great a marvel to myself as to my physicians and friends. * * *

J. B. HENION, M. D.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 21.

SIRS—The best proof we can give you that the statements made by Dr. Henion are entirely true, and would not have been published unless strictly so, is the following testimonial from the best citizens of Rochester and a card published by Rev. Dr. Foote.

H. H. WARNER & Co.

To Whom it May Concern:

We are personally or by reputation acquainted with Dr. Henion and we believe he would publish no statement not literally true. We are also personally or by reputation well acquainted with H. H. Warner & Co., proprietors of Warner's Safe Cure (by which Dr. Henion says he was cured), whose commercial and personal standing in this community are of the highest order, and we believe that they would not publish any statements which were not literally and strictly true in every particular.

C. R. PARSONS, (Mayor of Rochester.)
WM. PURCELL, (Editor Union and Advertiser.
W. D. SHUART, (ex-Surrogate Monroe county.)
EDWARD A. FROST, (ex-Clerk Monroe county.)
E. B. FENNER, (ex-District Attorney Monroe county.
J. M. DAVY, (ex-Member Congress, Rochester.)
JOHN S. MORGAN, (County Judge, Monroe Co.)
HIRAM SIBLEY, (Capitalist and Seedsman.)
JOHN VAN VOORHIS, (ex-Member of Congress.)

There was published in the Rochester (N. Y.) Democrat and Chronicle of the 31st of December, a statement made by J. B. Henion, M. D., narrating how he had been cured of Bright's disease of the kidneys, almost in its last stages, by the use of Warner's Safe Cure. I was referred to in that statement, as having recommended and urged Dr. Henion to try the remedy, which he did, and was cured. The statement of Dr. Henion is true, so far as it concerns myself, and I believe it to be true in all other respects. He was a parishioner of mine and I visited him in his sickness. I urged him to take the medicine and would do the same to any one who was troubled with a disease of the kidneys and liver.

ISRAEL FOOTE, (D. D.,)
(Late) Rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church., Rochester, N. Y.

They are Not Sorry.

There is one thing nobody ever regrets—that is, the day they first adopted Parker's Tonic as their regular family medicine. Its range is so wide, and its good effects so sure, that nothing else, except good nursing, are needed in a great majority of cases. Buy it, try it, and afterwards it will not require any praise from us.
